Fall 2012 Community College Feedback Report for Delgado Community College

Below you will see your institution's name followed by two additional columns. The first column shows the number of students enrolled at Northwestern State in the 2011 - 2012 academic year who have ever attended Delgado Community College. The second column shows the number of students who transferred to Northwestern State in the last academic year who attended Delgado Community College in the last three years. This column establishes your tracking cohort. If there are ten or more students in the tracking cohort or your institution has requested one, Northwestern State has attached a tracking report.

The summary report includes information on such variables as number of transfers with degrees, entry majors, demographics, grade point averages, transfer hours, earned hours, and current majors.

NOTE: A student is not included in the retained column once they have graduated. Also, the graduated columns are cumulative.

NOTE: A student is considered retained if they are retained in any part of the subsequent year. For example, a student in 2006 - 2007 is considered retained if they are enrolled at any point in 2007 - 2008.

NOTE: Delgado has a later entry cohort than the other three as IR does not start tracking a two-year institution's cohorts unless the institution has at least 10 members in that cohort or unless the institution requests tracking.

NOTE: Students are only tracked for four years. Any retention and/or degrees awarded after that point are not included.
